"Pay attention to the deceptive policies of Rajavi and people's mujahedin organization in France"

According to the news which has been received from Iranian refugee camps in Europe, we got informed that people's mujahedin organization intends on 23 of June ,2012 to organize a ceremony in the Villepinte Village in France. For informing the public opinion we draw your attention to the following subjects:

1. According to the organizing of this ceremony in 30

Khordad (23 June) which is the anniversary of the beginning of the huge explosions and blind terrors in Iran , proves that the leaders of pmoi ,Massoud Rajavi as the leader of National Council of Resistance (NCR) and Maryam Ghajar Azdanlo as the third wife of Massoud Rajavi and forcible and imposed president of this council (NCR) in Paris , support the blind terrors as well as the suicide operation in 1981 in Iran which caused panic and public fear and this flow falsely claims through its lawyers in the law courts that they have rejected the arm struggle.

2. The people's mujahedin organization for deceiving the public opinion and for organizing this ceremony utilize the non Iranian people by paying their transportation fee as well as 3 days trip in Paris with hotel andetc , tries its best to show their sham popularity among Iranian people by the presence of those non Iranian people in this ceremony in Villepinte in France. This method has been used many times by this organization in the past and fortunately this fake method has been revealed by news agencies .

3. In circumstances that pmoi with its presence on Iraqi soil as the enemy of Iranian people and as Saddam Hussein's Persian language mercenaries has been known and recognized since 30 years ago and as the fifth column of Saddam Hussein Army , they have killed many Iranian soldiers and people ,and as a result of that they are very unpopular among Iranian people.

6. According to the facts mentioned above , we would like to inform you respectfully that in confronting with the representatives of this espionage organization (pmoi) you should be very careful not to involve yourself in their policies which work like trap and ambush. Maryam Rajavi Appears before Paris Court

A subpoena was issued to probe into Rajavi's involvement in a variety of terrorist charges

Reports confirm that the French Ministry of Justice has summoned Maryam Rajavi, the Paris based leader of the terrorist MKO, to a Paris court following investigations into her terrorist activities. The subpoena was issued to probe into her involvement in terrorist acts, money laundry, blatant violation of human rights, self-immolation and other lawsuits filed against the terrorist group.

On 16 June 2003 the French best-known anti-terrorist judge, Jean Louis Bruguiere, issued a detention order accusing MKO of "terrorist activities, association with a terrorist organization and financing terrorist operations". Following the order and on 17 June 2003 more than 1.200 police forces launched the largest police operation in three decades to raid 13 MKO-run offices in the suburbs of Paris, including its headquarters at Auvers-sur-Oise and arrested 164 suspected MKO cadres as well as Maryam Rajavi herself.

To protest her arrest, the members of the group demonstrated a horrible potentiality concealed from the outsiders since then. According to reports issued by MKO's media, "16 people attempted to set themselves alight in three days in Paris, Berne, Rome, London, Ottawa, Athens and Nicosia". The human tragedy ended with two deaths; two women, Sediqeh Mojaveri, 44-year-old, and Neda Hassani, 19-year-old, died because of the self-immolation injuries.

After the fall of Saddam, when the group was disarmed by the coalition forces in Iraq, MKO wore a pro-democratic mask and Maryam Rajavi was tasked with establishing and leading the group's headquarters in Auvers-Sur-Oise, north of Paris, to mastermind terrorist plots under a democratic profile. The investigation into the group's terrorist charges continues in French courts.

Dear Madam Minister,

We, the victims of the Rajavi cult demand that Massoud and Maryam Rajavi, Mehdi Abrishamchi, Seyed Mohammad Mohaddessin and other leaders of this organization based in Auvers sur Oise be tried in court. Maryam and Massoud Rajavi, Mehdi Abrishamchi, Seyed Mohammad Mohaddessin and other leaders of the PMOI based in Auvers sur Oise terrorists are terrorist plotters. They have committed many crimes in Iran and Iraq. The time has come for them to be brought to court and answer for the crimes they

The Mojahedin-e Khalq organization held meetings in France claiming to be the democratic opposition against Iran. You know that most participants of their rallies are not Iranian and they come in exchange for some money and free travel tickets. How can a terrorist organization have so much money?

Some politicians have TAKEN PART in the international meetings of Maryam Rajavi. The international media revealed that these characters received from 40,000 to 160,000 dollars for every speech they made in favour of this organization. Where does the PMOI get this money? Are you aware that these characters are being prosecuted by U.S. courts?

Maryam and Massoud Rajavi, Mehdi Abrishamchi, Seyed Mohammad Mohaddessin and other PMOI leaders based in Auvers sur Oise formed a very dangerous terrorist cult. Under the order of the leaders of this organization, on 17 and 19 June 2003, more than 20 members of the PMOI set themselves on fire in the public streets of France and Europe. Why does the French justice system not achieve something in this issue?

... Commanders and members of the PMOI, located in Auvers sur Oise, are included on the blacklist of Canada, the USA and Australia. How come these people are free in France even though they are planning terrorist operations against Iranians? The U.S. State Department and committed against Iranians and Iraqi Kurds.

The PMOI claims to be the opposition of Iran but has no popular support in Iran. Do you know that the Iranians recognize this organization as a terrorist cult and despise it?

Each of the PMOI leaders, currently resident in Auvers sur Oise, have caused the murders of 400 innocent people through the use of bomb explosions. The Iranian Mojahedin exploit French and European democracy to manipulate public opinion. Is it right that a group of criminal terrorists coexists along with French citizenry?

Maryam Rajavi and other leaders of the PMOI have personally participated in assassinations and terrorist operations. Look at their pictures. Today in their modern clothes they boast they are supporters of democracy and thereby manipulate others.

Commanders and members of the PMOI, located in Auvers sur Oise, are included on the blacklist of Canada, the USA and Australia. How come these people are free in France even though they are planning terrorist operations against Iranians?

The U.S. State Department and Human Rights Watch reported that the Rajavi cult mistreated dissidents. The PMOI has imprisoned, tortured and murdered dissidents in its camps.

Why are these terrorists not brought to justice? With their financial means they are able to threaten and stifle their opponents.

We, the victims of the Rajavi cult, demand that Massoud and Maryam Rajavi, Mehdi Abrishamchi, Seyed Mohammad Mohaddessin and other leaders of this organization based in Auvers sur Oise be tried in a court of law. France must show its resolve in the fight against terrorism and foreign threats.

The United Nations top envoy in Iraq today voiced his concern about the delay in the relocation of the residents of Camp New Iraq – formerly known as Camp Ashraf – to a new location, Camp Hurriya, prior to resettlement in third countries.

“I urge the remaining residents of Camp Ashraf to relocate to Camp Hurriya without delay,” the Secretary-General’s Special Representative and head of the UN Assistance Mission for Iraq (UNAMI), Martin Kobler, said. “The relocation process should not be stalled. I am concerned that there will be violence if the relocation doesn’t recommence. Any violence would be unacceptable.”

UNAMI added that the relocation process has come a long way since February 2012. Two thirds of the residents have already moved to Camp Hurriya, prior to resettlement abroad. Among them are hundreds of people with special needs, suffering from disabilities and serious medical conditions.

The Mission added that the relocation to Camp Hurriya has been stalled since the arrival of a fifth group of residents on 5 May.

Camp New Iraq – made up of several thousand Iranian exiles, many of them members of a group known as the People’s Mojahedeen of Iran – has been one of the main issues dealt with by UNAMI for more than 18 months.

In line with a memorandum of understanding signed in December 2011 by the UN and the Iraqi Government to resolve the situation, some two-thirds of the residents, or 2,000 people, were re-located to a temporary transit location near Baghdad known as Camp Hurriya – and formerly known as “I also urgently call on States to include residents who are eligible for refugee status in their resettlement quotas and to offer them a path to a more hopeful future outside Iraq,” Mr. Kobler said.

UNAMI staff monitor the human rights and humanitarian situation during the relocation process and provide round-the-clock human rights monitoring at Camp Hurriya.

Under the memorandum of understanding from last December, the Government of Iraq is responsible for the safety and security of the residents during their relocation and for the duration of their stay at the camp.

Simple Answer to Mojahedin Khalq's Financial Resources Puzzle

Mazda Parsi, Nejat Bloggers, June 13 2012

<http://www.nejatngo.org/en/post.aspx?id=4523>

It was about 3 months ago that US Treasury department appeared to begin an investigation to figure out the sources of payments offered to prominent former American officials over their speeches in support of the Mujahedin Khalq Organization . Americans are prohibited by law from doing business with designated terrorist groups.[1]

Besides, Security Council of the United Nations on September 28, 2001, issued Resolution 1373 calling on "all states to combat international terrorism". By resolution 1373 the council established a committee of the council "to monitor the resolution's implementation and called an all States to report on actions they had taken to that end." [2]

"the council also decided that States should prohibited their nationals and persons or entities in their territories from

... According to the Guardian article, some US officials who suspect Safavi's claim, say because of the amounts involved, money is coming from other sources, mostly likely Saudi Arabia and Israel.[5] The report somehow confirms what former CIA official Philip Giraldi had previously revealed on the MKO-Israel relationship-both financial and military."The group appear to have ample financial resources, and it is generally believed that at least some of the money comes from Mossad," he writes." the MEK is able to place full-page ads in major US newspapers and is also known to pay hefty speaker's fees to major political figures ...

making funds, financial assets, economic resources, financial or other related services available to persons commit or attempt to commit, facilitate or participate in the commission of terrorist acts", according to the resolution." States should also refrain from providing any form of support to entities or persons involved in terrorist acts; take the necessary steps to prevent the commission of terrorist acts, deny safe haven to those who finance, plan, support, commit terrorist acts and provide safe havens as well." [3]

The resolution also calls on the states to intensify and accelerate the exchange of information regarding terror acts and forged or falsified documents made by terrorist groups. Thus, it doesn't seem so difficult to figure out financial resources of the MKO if the US Treasury Department is truly concerned about them – and it must be concerned.

While the MKO's spokesman Ali Safavi said the funds for the pro-MKO campaign come from Iranian Americans [4], there are various reports and testimonies on the group's affluent resources.

ample financial resources, and it is generally believed that at least some of the money comes from Mossad," he writes." the MEK is able to place full-page ads in major US newspapers and is also known to pay hefty speaker's fees to major political figures who are willing to speak publicly on its behalf." [6]

Justin Raimondo, the editor of antiwar.com finds it fair to ask where all this unaccounted for cash is coming from. "while the Rajavi-ites use the familiar methods employed by cults to strip their members of all their assets -see the AlJazeera video for a heart-rending account of how a major MEK spokesman ripped off his own elderly parents- it seems likely that, during their sojourn as Saddam Hussein's favorite assassins, the MEK received compensation from the Iraqi dictator for slaughtering the Kurds and other regime opponents so efficiently and ruthlessly," Raimondo asserts. He concludes that those former US officials are actually "recipients of Saddam's gold." [7]

Simple Answer to Mojahedin Khalq's Financial Resources Puzzle

It sounds that Saddam Hussein has been the group's basic financial resource including funds illegally siphoned from the UN Oil-for-Food program until the fall of Iraqi dictator in 2003.[8] The report is confirmed by testimonies of former members of the group. Mrs. Maryam Sanjabi, a former member of the MKO's elite council said that based on agreements held between MKO ringleaders and Iraq's officials in 1987, Saddam's regime allocated the revenues gained from selling 50000 barrels per day of oil to the MEK in addition to arms and logistic, reported FNA.[9]

Sanjabi revealed that the group used to smuggle the Iraqi oil supplies to foreign markets after Kuwait war and the UN oil embargo against Saddam's regime! the group used its front companies to sell Iraqi oil. Ali Hussein Nezhad who was Rajavi's Private interpreter in the MKO, escaped the group in late April. Immediately after his defection, he published an announcement in which he denounces the "cult of Rajavi" . regarding the group's financial resources, Hussein Nezhad writes:"As we see, Rajavi's claims of Iranian's financial support for the group and all his tricks in fundraising programs are shallow and just like a cover to hide the oil resources they plundered from Iraqi people; like a justification to whiten their multi-million operating cost." [10]

He reveals facts of Saddam's generosity towards Massoud Rajavi:"in his last visit with Saddam Hussein in August 2000, Rajavi asked Hussein to increase his oil share up to 100 thousand barrels a day (3 million barrels a month), according to documents and letters I translated or reports composed by his closest comrades that I could read."

He explained how the MKO managed to turn Saddam's gifts into dollars: "Rajavi received his oil share in coupons which were then sent to Europe to be changed into dollars." [11]

Rajavi's quota from Iraqi oil also included other amounts of oil funneled to his cult by Saddam Hussein out of UN Oil for Food program, according to Hussein Nezhad.[12]

Naturally, the MKO revenue from oil resources was invested in European banks and industry, the former MKO member revealed.

Considering various reports and testimonies on the group's financial resources, it actually seems simple to discover the origins of their funds. It won't be so difficult to find the affiliated companies working with this terrorist designated group and definitely simple to prove the felony committed by their material supporters.

French Judges summoned the commanders of the Mojahedin to the courthouse to ask for explanations of the PMOI leaders on the issue of June 17, 2003 and other terrorist acts carried out by this organization on French territory and also in other European countries.

During the demonstration, Iranian and French citizens clearly displayed their dissatisfaction with the presence of terrorism in France. The event took place under the protection of the French police and in spite of the presence of a large number of Rajavi's agents lurking around the demonstrators. Demonstrators holding the Iranian flag and with flyers in hand shouted "Rajavi is a terrorist" and demanded the expulsion of the dangerous cult from France.

The event ended with the moral support of the French citizens present at the scene as Maryam Rajavi went to court to answer questions by French judges.

The second part of this protest was held in a conference room in Paris where protesters held a major debate on the issue of foreign terrorism in France and Europe. During this meeting, which lasted two hours, the speakers, themselves victims of the Rajavi cult, shared painful experiences of their lives within the cult. In this debate, the victims of Rajavi presented their condolences and sorrow over the death se she, as the leader of this organization and responsible of all those wrongdoings , has tried her best to conceal and hide the reality of her organization in hundreds of terrorist acts and ,,,,,,etc. it is worth knowing that the evocation of Maryam Rajavi as a ringleader of this organization and the first person responsible of all those wrongdoings inside and outside of this organization , to the court of law is a very important and joyful event and good news for the victims of this cult, who has endured the brutal and barbaric tortures and imprisonment and ordeals for years , and their families as well as the critics of this organization. she should be put on historical trial before Iranian people and she should be responsive for all the crimes she has perpetrated against the Iranian people and their children .

This important event which the pmoi tried its best to hide it from the critics of this retarded and unpopular organization , was revealed and observed by the victims and the critics of this organization who participated in a gathering

It is worth mentioning that people's mujahedin organization began its terrorist activities since 1960 by assassinating the top American military advisers in Iran during the shah' time and then in 1980,s they began killing and slaying the common people inside Iran and according to the published documents , this organization has killed and slaughtered 16000 people including the Iranian top government officials . this cult

With the presence of this organization on Iraqi soil and being hired by Saddam Hussein with being paid one million dollars a day as their wage , they became the fifth column of the Saddam Hussein's army in the war with Iran . with their presence in Iraq , the violation of human rights began increasing against the pmoi dissidents by torturing and the imprisonment of those dissidents inside the pmoi prisons as well as sending them to the notorious Iraqi prison , Abu ghoraib. All those brutal and savage activities against the pmoi dissidents clarified much better the real content and essence of this organization. the self immolations of pmoi members in Paris in 2003 which carried out by the direct order of Maryam Rajavi herself to rescue her from the enforcement of the law and justice , is undeniable and inseparable of the pmoi grim history and record . in 2005 , the breach of the humane's most fundamental rights was published in a historical document by the Human Rights Watch .

So far Maryam rajavi has been evoked in different occasions by the court of law for their unlawful activities such as the terrorist activities , the violation of human rights and the vast money laundering . she has tried her best to divert the court procedure by giving divertive explanations to the court because in front of the French courthouse to support the French courthouse act by their slogans and their interviews outside of the courthouse and their supportive activities in favor of the French courthouse in front of the courthouse had a huge impact on the world and Iranian public opinion .

LONDON, June 17, 2012 /PRNewswire-USNewswire/ -- Iran-Interlink -- Critics of Iran's human rights record are being warned by former MEK members in Europe not to be fooled into giving support to a terrorist cult. The Iranian Mojahedin-e Khalq (MEK) wants to be removed from the U.S. FTO list and is using front organisations to lure paid speakers to a campaign rally in VillePinte, Paris on 23 June.

The warnings come after documents were made available to the U.S. Treasury linking an array of front organisation finances to companies and investments controlled by the Mojahedin-e Khalq's leader. Top MEK members are also directing political support for the campaign through proxy parliamentary groups like Friends of a Free Iran.

UN envoy concerned about delay in relocating Iranian exiles living in Iraqi camp 5

Speakers' agencies are being urged to exercise extreme caution regarding the MEK's methods for recruiting support. In the U.S., former political and military heavyweights have already fallen foul of this tactic, where several are currently being investigated for aiding and abetting a terrorist entity. Those attending the rally must know they are engaged by organisations with direct links to the MEK.

Simple Answer to Mojahedin Khalq's Financial Resources Puzzle 6-7

With the MEK's financial sources exposed it has become possible for victims to pursue a class action to claim compensation directly from the Rajavis.

Victims of the MEK, including former members who say their basic human rights were denied them for years, have launched a legal case for compensation from the companies which Massoud and Maryam Rajavi use to fund their elaborate and expensive propaganda campaigns. Anne Singleton speaking for the victims said, "Individuals who accept financial recompense from the MEK through its front organisations for speeches or lobbying should know that they can no longer claim ignorance and we will pursue them through the courts to recover money which should rightfully go to compensate the victims."

The MEK was removed from European terrorist lists on legal technicalities but concerns remain at official levels about the group's propensity to use violence.

In spite of their public bravado, the MEK leaders are facing harsh setbacks. Massoud Rajavi's stronghold in Iraq is being dismantled by UNAMI. His wife and co-leader Maryam Rajavi was in court last week in Paris to answer to charges of terrorism related activities, fraud and slavery. Other high ranking MEK members are being pursued for murder and terrorism offences relating to Iran, Iraq and France.
